In 2016, the NAC established the NMF National Alumni Council Scholarship Program that is to be supported exclusively by Alumni giving funds. The program goal is to help address the severe national shortage of physician leaders committed to the health of underserved communities. The NAC proposes to grow the number of scholarship awards each year as determined by the amount of Alumni giving. In 2019, scholarships were awarded to twelve fourth-year minority medical students within the four alumni regions.
